

REYNOLDSVILLE POST-OFFICE. Mails arrive and leave the post-office as follows: Arrive. Depart. FROM THE WEST. TO THE EAST. 1.15 p. m. - 7.00 p. m. 6.10 a. m. - 12.30 p. m.

LOCAL LAONICS. October 1st is Atonement Day for the Jewish people. Mushrooms and toadstools must be second cousins. Robinson guarantees boots and shoes to be just as represented.

The Falls Creek Car Company, is a proposed new plant for the young town seven miles above Reynoldsville. The cars will be made and completed from the raw material at the establishment.

The jovial jeweler, C. F. Hoffman, has been unusually pleasant this week. Some men do become wonderfully elated when they can talk about a little son Casper has only had this privilege since Sunday morning.

Most all our exchanges speak of the preparations being made by the schools of their towns to observe Columbus Day, 21st of October. Will Reynoldsville be behind? It is time to "get a move on" if anything is to be done.

A few Sons of St. George of this place went to DuBois last Friday to attend an anniversary celebration of the Sons and Daughters of St. George of that place. The banner carried in the procession by Gen. Grant lodge was a beauty, and it costs one hundred dollars.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla does what no other blood medicine in existence can do. It searches out all the impurities in the system and expels them harmlessly through the proper channels. This is why Ayer's Sarsaparilla is so pre-eminently effective as a remedy for rheumatism.

A freight car climbed up on the pilot of A. V. engine 27 in the DuBois yard last Friday afternoon and knocked the smokestack and headlight off and otherwise disfigured the engine, while the box car was demolished. Engine 27 was in the yard as an extra and local freight was doing some work when the smash-up occurred.

Hon. J. W. Foust, the postmaster, received a very neat invitation last Saturday to the formal opening of the World Fair on the twenty-first of next month. A complimentary ticket also accompanied the invitation. The P. M. expects to get the invitation framed and keep it as a souvenir of the Columbus Exposition.

Ridgway furnishes another sensation for the public to talk about. The masculine portion of the society eruption is a prominent man of that county sent. A pugilistic scene was enacted on the street last week and now a twenty-five thousand dollar damage suit is to follow. "If you dance you must pay the fiddler."

George Burtop, a jovial fellow of the Beechwood settlement, called at THE STAR office Saturday and left a beautiful bouquet of fresh flowers that had been neatly and tastily arranged. We are thankful to George for the bouquet, yet we do not give him credit for the arrangement of the flowers; yea, verily, we believe a woman had a hand in it.

For the benefit of the Big Run Echo we mention the fact that Reynoldsville is in Jefferson county, and not Clarion, as stated by that paper last week. As the Echo was gotten out by the compositor and Christian Endeavor editor last week, Bro. Ryland was not guilty of placing us over in a little county like Clarion, nor for the plagiarism indulged in by that paper.

The minutes of the seventh annual meeting of the Jefferson County W. C. T. U., which was held in the United Presbyterian church of Bellevue Aug. 31st and Sept 1st, reached this office, with a request to publish, on the 26th inst. The minutes are lengthy, our space limited that near publication day, and, hence, do not appear for the edification of the readers of THE STAR.

On Thursday J. W. Bigley, a benedict of Empire, Pa., with his bride, stopped at Hotel McConnell; and on Friday Wm. Miles, a benedict of Summerville, with his bride, stopped at Hotel Belnap. We are unable to say whether the young people of Reynoldsville have become frightened and are using disinfectants or whether they are willing that the town shall be afflicted with the matrimonial fever.

Gas will be piped from Elk county to Renovo, Lock Haven and Williamsport, a distance of seventy-five miles, and the expense of laying the line is estimated at $600,000. Natural gas will be a luxury for the denizens of the three cities where big floods are not unknown. Work on the line is to be commenced as soon as the charter is granted, an application for which will be made to the Governor on the 18th of October, 1922.

The travelling public will be agreeably surprised to know that the big "W" box at Falls Creek which has been used so long as a station is to be a thing of the past and that work has been commenced on a new frame depot there. If there is any place in the world where a good depot is needed, Falls Creek is the place. The railroads are not deserving of any praise for building the new structure, because necessity demanded it.

A human fiend from a foreign land is now in the Clarion jail charged with being the father of two children by his own daughter. The two were living at Fairmount. The girl, although unable to speak English, tried to convey the impression, by an interpreter, that she was married to a Frenchman some years ago and that he was the father of her children, but her monstrosity of a father said she lied and that he was the father of his daughter's children and that it was nobody's business.

MEETS DEATH ON THE RAIL.

The Sad Ending of a Former Reynoldsville Citizen. Eugene Glenn, the man who worked on the R. & F. C. R'y and lost the toes of his left foot while in the employ of that road, was killed in the collision of a passenger and freight train near Shreve, Ohio, on the Ft. Wayne railroad early Wednesday morning of last week.

He was married to a daughter of Frank Hartle, an engineer on the R. & F. C. R'y, about five years ago. Mr. Glenn secured a position as brakeman on the Ft. Wayne and moved to Allegheny City a year ago, where he since resided. He bade his wife good bye Tuesday noon, little thinking death was so near for him. He sealed his last words, "Good bye, my darling," with a kiss. Mr. Hartle went to Allegheny and brought the remains of his son-in-law to Summerville where they were interred beside his grandfather, Rev. Weldon. The young sorrowing widow came to Reynoldsville Friday evening with her parents, but returned to Allegheny Saturday to dispose of her household goods and she will then come here to make her home with her parents. She has no children.

He was Drunk.

Last Saturday when the west bound mail train was due a man, who was almost too drunk to walk, passed the railroad station and started up the track. He had only gone a short distance when he came to a place where a sidewalk was built across the track and there he lay down to wait until the world stopped revolving so rapidly. The man's body was on the outside of the track and his head was resting on the soft side of the first plank inside the rails. He was discovered just in time to be rescued from his perilous position. It may be possible that the fellow was anxious to "shuffle off this mundane sphere" as he was stretched out with his hands at his side when snatched from the path of the iron steed. When told of his danger he said, "I don't care."

The First in Twenty Years.

Thomas Tapper has been in the livery business for about twenty years, but he has just had his first experience of hiring a horse and buggy to a fellow who failed to return with the rig. Tuesday of last week a man called at Mr. Tapper's barn and hired a horse and buggy to drive to Brookville and was to return the same day. He failed, however, to get back and the liveryman gave the matter into the hands of Chief-of-Police Adlesperger, who found the rig at Brookville yesterday, but the man who hired it was not to be found.

An Important Meeting.

There will be a meeting held in the Centennial hall on Monday evening, Oct. 3rd, at eight o'clock, to make some definite arrangements about the electric railway for Reynoldsville. All who are interested, and even those not interested, are requested to attend the meeting. This is a very important matter and cannot be settled to the best interests of the town any other way than to build the road, and the sooner it is built the better for the town.

A Small Blaze.

A small fire originated mysteriously in the office of El. C. Burns' livery stable yesterday forenoon. It was discovered in time to be extinguished before much damage was done. The fire company responded promptly, but the fire was put out without their assistance. The fire got into the hay mow, but John C. Conser made lively use of his feet and thus gained the victory over the fire fiend.

He is the Right Man.

Since Richard Taaf was put in the Sprague mine as pit boss things have changed for the better. He understands his business thoroughly, and from three to four more tons of coal is being shipped from that mine daily; and, then, he is a very pleasant man to get along with and peace and harmony reign supreme. The men are well pleased with their present pit boss.

A Social.

The members of the M. E. church got up a social last Wednesday in honor of Rev. Murray and family. It was held in the lecture room of the church and was attended by a large number of the members. Ice cream, cake and coffee were served. Rev. Murray was presented with a good overcoat and his wife received a beautiful gold-lined silver tea set.

Jewish New Year.

Last Thursday and Friday were Jewish holidays and two stores in town were closed, J. & I. Fisher's and S. Ellis'. Thursday was the Hebrew New Year, it marked the commencement of the year 5653 of the Jewish calendar. Next Saturday, Oct. 1st, will be another Jewish holiday. The Jews observe their New Year day by sacrifice and atonement.

Card of Thanks.

We are very thankful to all people who were so kind and helpful during our mother's sickness and death. FRANK SHANER.

Arrested on Suspicion.

On Wednesday of last week some person entered the house of A. C. Best near Hopkins mill, when there was no one at home, and took therefrom forty dollars in cash. No one had been seen near the house but a Russian Jew peddler. Thursday morning Policeman Mincer and Mr. Best got on the Brookville accommodation to go to Falls Creek to look for the man whom they supposed had increased his exchequer somewhat at Mr. Best's expense. When near Panocest the peddler was seen at a farm house. The men who were looking for him, got off the train at Panocest and walked back until they met the Russian. As soon as he was accosted by the officer he commenced to cry like a child. The man was thoroughly searched but the money was not found. The officer brought him to town to find out whether he had sent any money away. As nothing could be found against the man, he was released. Then he got his mad up. He could not talk English, but when he was told to go his Russian tongue managed to twist around a conglomeration of curse words for Mincer's especial benefit. The ungenerous peddler was mad because the officer did not find him guilty. Some one who lives not more than ten miles from Hopkins' mill will, no doubt, spend the stolen money in Reynoldsville.

A Narrow Escape.

Miss Lulu Reynolds, the only lady bicycle rider in this place, had a very narrow escape from being crushed under the wheels of a ponderous locomotive last Monday morning. She had been to the A. V. R'y station and was on her way home and deliberately crossed the R. & F. C. R'y track in front of an approaching train. She had cleared the track about a foot and a half when the iron horse snorted past. The young lady said "I never thought of the train." Miss Reynolds stopped at Patsy Walsh's store long enough to allow her eyes to get into their normal position and her nerves settled before she attempted to ride her bicycle up town. Hereafter she will hardly become so enraptured with her wheel that she will not see an approaching train.

Welcomed their New Pastor.

The members of the M. E. church met in the lecture room of their edifice last evening to get acquainted with and welcome their new pastor, Rev. P. J. Slatery, and wife. A large crowd attended and it was a real pleasant affair. The new comers were given a hearty welcome and were made to feel that their lines have fallen in a pleasant place. Preparations had not only been made for a social time but also something to tickle the palate, such as sandwiches, cake, coffee, fruit, etc., which were served before home-going time arrived. This congregation enters the threshold of a new year with bright prospects.

A Scattered Family.

Mrs. John S. Smith, who has been at Buffalo, N. Y., having her eyes treated, was in town during the past week making arrangements to break up housekeeping for awhile. Her husband is working in the oil field, below Pittsburg, and her children are scattered from Dan to Beersheba, and that is her reason for discontinuing home-life in Reynoldsville for a season. She will return to Buffalo this week. We are glad to note that she is regaining her sight.

Republican Marching Club.

The Republican marching club of Reynoldsville appeared on the streets last evening arrayed in their campaign uniforms for the first time. They made a fine appearance. Their coats and pants are made of white ducking; the coats are trimmed in blue and the pants have one red stripe down each leg. A white helmet is used as a covering for their heads. The torchlight procession was headed by a martial band.

Our Saturday Visitors.

Have you noticed the fact that Reynoldsville is getting to be a great place for farmers to come to on Saturday? THE STAR visits a number of farm homes every week and they are discovering that Reynoldsville has some life. There is no town that has a better class of farmers trading in it than this town has. Our farmers are, as a rule, a very intelligent class of people.

Killed While Playing.

Rev. H. G. Furbay conducted the funeral services at Brookwayville Sunday of Clarence Stratton, eight-year-old son of James Stratton, of Clarion Mine, who was instantly killed by a lumber pile falling upon him Saturday morning. Clarence, with a twin brother and other boys, were playing in the lumber yard when the pile gave way crushing the boy with the results as above stated.

A Large School.

Seven hundred pupils are enrolled for the day school in this borough and one hundred and ten in the night school. Room No. 8 is so crowded that half of those enrolled in that room attend in the forenoon and the other half in the afternoon.

TWO ORGANIZERS.

A Mass Meeting of Miners was held in Centennial Hall. Notices were posted up last Thursday announcing that there would be a mass meeting of the miners of Reynoldsville on Friday evening in Centennial Hall. The object of the meeting was not stated, but the notices were signed by P. H. Penna, of Indiana, vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America. The speakers of the evening, J. A. Crawford, of Illinois, and P. H. Penna, of Indiana, were present and an intelligent audience of miners and mine laborers greeted them. Mr. Crawford was introduced first and commenced his speech by offering two propositions, viz: Oppression and personal liberty. Showing what one would compel the other to resent, Mr. Crawford compared the past with the present in the history of coal mining, and in a speech of one hour and fifteen minutes he paraded his best arguments to convince his hearers that their only hopes for successfully meeting and combating with capital was in organizing and then standing firm as one man. He thinks that capital and labor are uncompromisingly at enmity, and that it is just as difficult to get them to unite as 'tis to get fire and water. It was soon patent that the object of the meeting was to get the miners of Reynoldsville to join the organization the speakers represented. In illustrating capital and labor, and to show wherein lay the power, Mr. Crawford said, $100,000 being laid down upon a piece of coal land could do nothing of itself, but by sending 100 men to do the work provided by means of this money it is made productive and these men are the developing power and have the right of home, living and education. He used good logic in his address and clearly illustrated all his points. Mr. Penna was introduced and he said some very plain things in his hour's speech. He seems to have little faith in the loyalty of non-union men. At the close of the meeting a request was made for applications to become members of the Local Assembly in this place. The organization of the United Mine Workers of America, which the two gentlemen represented, was consummated at Columbus, Ohio, in January of 1891.

A Reverend Resigns.

Rev. E. Cressman, who has been pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church at this place for nearly six years, has handed in his resignation, which takes effect on the 7th of October. He did good work for the congregation he untriflingly served. The church has been relieved of a debt that was resting on it when he came, and improvements on the interior and exterior of the church have been made; the membership has been increased from twenty odd members to eighty. The congregation loses, in the removal of its present pastor, one who labored earnestly for their best welfare. Three years ago he erected a substantial and neat dwelling on Main street, now the Baptist parsonage. Rev. Cressman will preach his farewell sermons next Sunday as follows, at Chestnut Grove in the morning at 10.30; Reynoldsville at 3.00 P. M., in German language, and at 7.30 P. M. in English. The Sunday school of that church will be held in the afternoon next Sunday instead of the morning. Rev. Cressman resigns to take temporary charge of the St. John's Lutheran church at Ridgway, lately served by Rev. A. J. R. Graep, who was elected professor of music in Thiel college at Greenville, Mercer Co., Pa.

Gold Dollars.

Gold dollars for ninety cents are not for sale. They are worth one hundred cents. When all wool suits of clothes are offered for $4.00 you don't believe they are all wool, do you? Now the same thing applies to shoes. We don't handle gold dollars or wool suits but we do handle a good line of shoes, which like the gold dollar, are worth one hundred cents on the dollar, and are not selling for ninety cents. If you buy shoes you want for your gold its full value in quality and quantity and you get it when you buy at Reed's shoe store. Some people want and expect everything at ninety cents on the dollar and then kick if the goods are not first-class, but the sensible people pay one hundred cents and get full value and have no reason to complain. We offer no balts, mark our shoes in plain figures and sell honest shoes at honest prices. —Reed's Shoe Store.

With Shining Pail.

Here's what the papers are reciting: An humble boy with shining pail went gaily singing down the dale to where the cow with a brindle tail on the clover pasture did regale. A bumble bee did gaily sail over the soft and shady vale to where the boy with a shining pail was milking the cow with a brindle tail. The bee lit down on the cow's left ear, her heels flew up through the atmosphere, and through the leaves of a chestnut tree the boy soared into eternity.

Lecture in Centennial hall next Friday evening, September 30th. Come and hear it.

Jamison McCreight, of Jewel county, Kansas, youngest brother of Thomas, Sharp, and John McCreight, is visiting his brothers. This is his first visit to this section for over eighteen years. H. A. Reed and A. G. Brown went to Falls Creek last Friday afternoon to look after the welfare of Steve Mull, who is a member of the Jr. O. U. A. M. of this place. Mr. Mull is on the sick list. J. L. Ludwig, who is an agent for the Westinghouse Electrical Manufacturing establishment, was in Reynoldsville last week speaking a good word for the Westinghouse, if the railway is built here. Charles Anderson, of Renovo, was in Reynoldsville last week looking for a house to rent, and after making inquiry at a number of places, decided that empty houses are not easily found in Reynoldsville. The town is in need of more houses. Dr. W. B. Alexander, J. C. Swartz, Pat McDonald and James Degnan, viewed Seelye & Alexander's large tract of timber land on the North Fork yesterday. The supposition is that the visit was made for the purpose of putting a mill on the tract. F. K. Arnold, the ex-banker, was in Punxsutawney last Thursday to see the new street railway at that place. He says, "It's a dandy road." Mr. Arnold is gathering pointers about electric railways so that he can intelligently talk of the proposed line for Reynoldsville at the meeting to be held in Centennial hall next Monday evening.
